MORE than 1,000 youngsters met with employers, universities and colleges as they looked to the future at a careers fair.

The Braintree District Careers Fair took place at Chelmsford City Racecourse and saw the Year 11 pupils get to grips with 90 different employers.

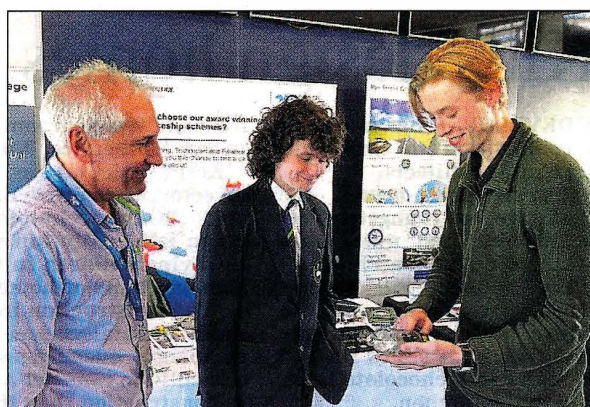

Firms from right across the public and private sectors were on hand to give advice to parents and children who went along to explore their job options.

Tom Cunningham, Braintree councillor for economic development, said: "This careers fair provided a fantastic opportunity for students to connect with local and national employers from a range of sectors to help them find their next career path once they leave school."
